BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. For Sale or Lease,

THE following tracts of land in Charles county, Maryland: one lying on the Potomac at the mouth of Pomonkey creek, containing three hundred and forty acres, about 16 miles from Alexandria, the larger portion level land, of a stiff soil, well adapted to the cultivation of corn, wheat and tobacco, and equal in fertility to any in the neighborhood. On this farm is one of the most elegant sites for building of all those fine heights which border the Potomac, commanding the most extensive view of the adjacent country, both in Virginia and Maryland, for more than twenty miles up and down the river: located in a genteel neighborhood, it would make an agreeable residence, and from its proximity to market, with the advantage of the best navigation, an extremely profitable farm.—The tenant's houses would accommodate the negroes for its cultivation.

A Tract, about one mile back from the former, containing 334 acres, a large portion in wood, white and red oak, and some chesnut; the remainder a tenement in tolerable repair, the whole a high stiff soil, similar to the one above mentioned.

A Tract, lying at the mouth of Mattawoman Creek, about 25 miles from Alexandria, the whole first rate flat river land, now completely enclosed.—On this tract is a noted fishery, called Rum Point, at which there has been cleared upwards of two thousand dollars per annum, and where independent of the fish sold on the shore, there might be put up from one to two thousand barrels every season; besides the profits of the fishery, the advantage of manuring the farm with the offal of the shore, the whole, with a small portion of industry, might be made to produce ten barrels of corn per acre. On the shore, are a dwelling house, houses for holding salt, and curing any quantity of fish, and for the accommodation of hands.

A Tract, lying about 14 miles from the last mentioned, containing 236 acres, more than 200 of which are in wood, and would cut from 25 to 30 cords per acre, within one mile of the river, where wood has rarely sold for less than five dollars per cord. It will be divided into 50 or 25 acre lots, to suit purchasers.—If preferred, the wood will be sold standing, for so much per acre.

If not disposed of, previous to the first day of Sept. next, the above mentioned arable lands, will be leased out, upon advantageous terms, for five or seven years, at the option of the lessees.

Application to be made to the subscriber, residing near the head of Mattawoman Creek, Charles county, Maryland.

A FRIEND OF THE CONSTITUTION.
No. IX.

Hampden is not more successful in his reasoning against the jurisdiction of the court, than in his authorties.

Having finished his quotations, he exclaims,—How after all this, in this contest between the head, and one of the members of our confederacy, in this vital contest for power between them, can the supreme court assert its exclusive right to determine the controversy?

The court has itself answered this question. It has said—"On the supreme court of the United States, has the constitution of our country devolved this important duty."

Such a question cannot assume a form for judicial investigation, without being "a case arising under the constitution;" and to "all" such cases "the judicial power" is expressly extended. The right asserted by the court, is then, expressly given by the great fundamental law which unites us as a nation.

If we were now making, instead of controversy, a constitution, where else could this important duty of deciding questions which grow out of the constitution, and the laws of the union, be safely or wisely placed? Would any sane mind prefer to the peaceful and quiet mode of carrying the laws of the union into execution by the judicial arm, that they should be trampled under foot, or enforced by the sword?—That every law of the United States should be resisted with impunity, or produce a civil war? If not, what other alternative presents itself? Hampden suggests the arbitration of some foreign potentate—Britain, France, or Russia, for example. Is he sure that the parties could agree on an arbiter? Is he sure that such arbiter would be influenced entirely by the principles of right and not at all by those of policy? Is he sure that such arbiter would understand the constitution and laws of the United States? Is he sure that this intrusion of a foreign potentate into our domestic "vital contests for power" would not give that potentate an undue influence over the weaker party, and lead to intrigues which might foment divisions, animate discord, and finally produce dismemberment? If he is not certain on these and many other points which suggest themselves, and ought to be considered, how can he think the submission of these controversies to such an arbiter, preferable to the submission of them to a domestic tribunal, composed of American citizens, selected by the man in whom the American people have reposed their highest confidence, approved by the representatives of the state sovereignties, and placed by the people themselves in a situation which exempts them from all undue influence?

But this is not now a question open for consideration. The constitution has decided it.

After expressing some doubts respecting the propriety of that great American principle, the judicial right to decide on the supremacy of the constitution, a right which is inseparable from the idea of a paramount law, a written constitution he adds, "but the present claim on the part of the judiciary is to give unlimited powers to a government only clothed by the people with those which are limited. It claims the right, in effect, to change the government, to convert a federal into a consolidated government."

Hampden leaves us to search for that part of the opinion in which this claim is asserted. Is in it the following?—"This government is acknowledged by all to be one of enumerated powers. The principle that it can exercise only the powers granted to it, would seem too apparent," &c.

If not in this, or in such as this, for the opinion abounds with them, is it inseparable from the power of deciding in the last resort, all questions "arising under the constitution and laws" of the United States? If he contends that it is, I answer that the constitution has expressly given the power, and the exercise of it, cannot be the assertion of a right to change that instrument.

Hampden again demands the clause in the constitution which grants this jurisdiction. "The necessity," he says, "of showing an express provision for a right claimed by one of the contracting parties to pass finally on the rights or powers of another" "is increased when the right is claimed for a deputy or department of such contracting party. The supreme court is but a department of the general government."

I am not sure that I comprehend the meaning of these sentences. The words "one of the contracting parties" and "general government," appear to be used in the same sense, as designating the same object. So the words "deputy" and "department of such contracting party." If they are not to be understood so, I am unable to construe them. If they are, then let me ask what is meant by the word "general government"? Is it Congress? Is it the whole government? If the former, whence does he derive his authority for saying that the judicial department is the "deputy" of congress? Certainly, not from the constitution. According to that instrument, the judicial, is a co-ordinate department, created at the same time, and proceeding from the same source, with the legislative and executive departments.

If the latter, the whole government consists of departments. Neither of these is the deputy of the whole, or of the other two. Neither can perform the duties, or exercise the powers assigned to another; nor can all of them together participate in those duties and powers, or perform them jointly. Each is confined to the sphere of action prescribed to it by the people of the United States, and within that sphere, performs its functions alone. The legislature and executive can no more unite with the judiciary in deciding a cause, than the judiciary can unite with them in making a law, or appointing a foreign minister. On a judicial question then, the judicial department is the government, and can alone exercise the judicial power of the United States.

Can Hampden have been so inattentive to the constitution of his country as not to have made these observations; or does his hostility to this department lead him to indulge in expressions which his sober judgement must tell him are totally misapplied?

But he denies that there exists in the government a power to decide this controversy. He says—"They cannot do it unless we tread under foot the principle which forbids a party to decide his own cause."

Let us temperately examine how far this principle applies to the case.

The government of the Union was created by, and for, the people of the United States. It has a department in which is vested its whole legislative power, and a department in which is vested its whole judicial power. These departments are filled by citizens of the several states.

The propriety and power of making any law which is proposed must be discussed in the legislature before it is enacted. If any person to whom the law may apply, contests its validity, the case is brought before the court. The power of Congress to pass the law is drawn into question. But the courts of the union, Hampden says, cannot decide this question "without treading under foot the principle that forbids a man to decide his own cause."

What would be the condition of the world should this principle be deemed applicable to the exercise of the judicial authority by the regular tribunals of the country?

Any individual of Virginia, for example, chooses to deny the validity of a law, and proceedings for its enforcement are instituted. But, according to this new doctrine the court of the state is incapable of deciding a question involving the power of the legislature, without treading under foot this sacred principle. Let the state itself be a nominal party as in prosecutions for crimes, or suits against its debtors, and the violation of the sacred principle would be still more apparent. How are these questions to be settled without the intervention of a court? Or are they to remain for ever suspended?

It is the plain dictate of common sense, and the whole political system is founded on the idea, that the departments of government are the agents of the nation, and will perform, within their respective spheres, the duties assigned to them.—The whole owes to its parts the peaceful decision of every controversy which may arise among its members. It is one of the great duties of government, one of the great objects for which it is instituted. Agents for the performance of this duty must be furnished, or the government fails in one of the great ends of its creation.

To whom more safely than to the judges are judicial questions to be referred? They are selected from the great body of the people for the purpose of deciding them. To secure impartiality, they are made perfectly independent. They have no personal interest in aggrandizing the legislative power. Their paramount interest is the public prosperity, in which is involved their own and that of their families.—No tribunal can be less liable to be swayed by unworthy motives from a conscientious performance of duty. It is not then the party sitting in his own cause. It is the application to individuals by one department of the acts of another department of the government. The people are the authors of all; the departments are their agents; and if the judge be personally disinterested, he is as exempt from any political interest that might influence his opinion, as imperfect human institutions can make him.

To the demand that the words which gives the jurisdiction should be stated, I answer—they have already been stated.—The jurisdiction is expressly given in the words "the judicial power shall extend to all cases arising under this constitution." How does Hampden elude this provision? Not by denying that the case "arises under the constitution." That, not even he can venture to deny. How then does he elude it? He says that "these words may be otherwise abundantly satisfied.—But how "otherwise satisfied," he has not told us; nor can he. I admit there are other cases arising under the constitution. But the words are "all cases" and I deny that the word "some." can be substituted for "all," or that the word "all," can be satisfied if any one case can be withdrawn from the jurisdiction of the court. But the same reason may be assigned for withdrawing any or every other case. As each occurs, Hampden may say "these words may be otherwise abundantly satisfied." What peculiar reason has he assigned for this case which is not equally applicable to any and every other? His reason is that the case involves an enquiry, into the extent of the powers of the general government, and of a state government. And I ask what case can arise under the constitution which does not involve one or both of these enquiries? Let Hampden, if he can, state the case.

These words then cannot be otherwise satisfied. Hampden does not merely contract, he annihilates them.

But suppose him to succeed in excluding from the federal courts, all cases in which a question respecting the powers of the government of the union, or of a state can arise, are they to remain for ever undecided? Hampden does not say so. They must of course be decided in the state courts. He quotes, as sustaining his principles, a decision of the court of appeals in Virginia overruling an act of congress; and a decision of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, (though in this he is mistaken) to the same effect. It follows then that great national questions are to be decided, not by the tribunal created for their decision by the people of the United States, but by the tribunal created by the state which contests the validity of the act of congress, or asserts the validity of its own act. Thus, in the language of the Federalist, (No. 45) presenting to the world "for the first time, a system of government founded on an inversion of the fundamental principles of all government;"—"the authority of the whole society every where subordinate to the authority of the parts;"—a monster in which the head is under the direction of the members."

Hampden is not more fortunate in the second principle with which he attempts to sustain this strange construction of the constitution, although he is pleased to term it "conclusive." "The rank of this controversy," he says, "between the head and one of the members of the confederacy, may be said to be superior to those depending between two of the members; and the lawyers well know that a specification beginning with a person or thing of an inferior grade, excludes those of a superior."

If I could be surprized at any argument found in the essays of Hampden, I should be surprised at this.

The jurisdiction of the federal courts, as described in the constitution, is dependent on two distinct considerations. The first is the character of the cause; the second, the character of the parties. All cases arising under the constitution, laws, and treaties of the United States; all cases affecting public ministers; and all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; are cognizable in those courts, whoever may be the parties. The cases of the second class depend entirely on the character of the parties, without regard to the nature of the cause. It is not necessary that these two properties should be combined in the same cause, in order to give the court jurisdiction. If a case arise under the constitution, it is immaterial who are the parties; and if an alien be a party, it is not requisite that the case should arise under the constitution.

But McCullough, not the United States, is the party on the record; and were it otherwise, that circumstance would bring the case within, not exclude it from, the jurisdiction of the court. The constitution expressly gives jurisdiction to the courts of the union in "cases to which the United States shall be a party."

There is then no one objection made to the opinion of the supreme court which fails more entirely than this to its jurisdiction.

I have been induced to review these essays the more in detail, because they are intended to produce a very serious effect; and because they advance principles which go, in my judgment, to the utter subversion of the constitution. Let Hampden succeed, and that instrument will be radically changed. The government of the whole will be prostrated at the feet of its members; and that grand effort of wisdom, virtue, and patriotism, which produced it, will be totally defeated.

A FRIEND OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Washington, July 14.

The Secretary of War returned yesterday to the seat of government, from his visit to his residence in South Carolina.

[National Intelligencer.

From the same of July 13.

We have various reports, by arrivals from Gibraltar, &c at divers ports, respecting the ratification by Spain of the Treaty for the cession of the Floridas. One story is, that on the 28th of May the Treaty was not ratified; which is quite likely, as Mr. Forsyth, the bearer of it, had scarcely been in Madrid long enough for the King to have read it over after its reception. Another report is, that it not only was not, but would not be ratified. This matter we take to be beyond the prescience of either captain or supercargo; and therefore we shall believe it when we see it, and put our faith in no one's second sight. The third report, that at a given day the Treaty was ratified, we apprehend, is less to be believed than either of the others; as by a comparison of dates, it appears doubtful whether our Minister had then reached Madrid.

In good time, we shall have information which may be relied on, and it shall be given to our readers. We have very little doubt of being able, within ten or fifteen days to announce the ratification of the Treaty by the government of Spain.

Richmond, July 9.

The Federal Court for this circuit (Chief Justice Marshall on the bench,) commenced a special term on Monday last, for the purpose of trying the seamen, (lately on board the armed vessel Irresistible) who were sent up from Norfolk on a charge of piracy. They were charged by the attorney for the United States in different indictments. Some for piratically plundering a Spanish vessel off the coast of Cuba, of 10,000 dols in specie; and some for plundering the Superior, a vessel of Baltimore, of watches, jewelry, &c. Some of the crew were indicted for receiving the property stolen from the Superior. The Grand Jury found true bills; and on Wednesday last they were put to the bar (in irons) to the number of 21, and separately arraigned. They were asked if they had provided themselves with counsel, to which they replied in the negative. The Chief Justice then informed them that the Court would assign them counsel, and requested to know if they had any preference. One mentioned Mr. Andrew Stevenson, another, Mr. W. Wickham, to which the court added Messr. Bouldin and Gilmer. The trial is fixed for Monday next.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

At an adjourned term of this court holden on Tuesday 29th June, at Boston, Judge Story pronounced the result of the deliberation of the court in the case of Holmes and others, convicted of piracy in Oct. last, and in whose behalf a motion in arrest of judgement had been argued at the present term by Messrs. Austin and Spooner. The judge declared that the questions before the court were novel in their nature, important in principle and interesting to the public and the prisoners in their result; and that after mature deliberation, it was thought advisable to certify a difference of opinion on the leading question of the cause. Thereupon, at the instance of the District Attorney, the record will be transmitted to the supreme court of the U. S. which convenes at Washington, on the first Monday of Feb. next.

A letter from Gibraltar, of June 2, says "markets are very dull every where—vessels are returning from aloft [up the Mediterranean] without effecting sales. We have a report in circulation that an insurgent privateer of Com. Brown's squadron has been lost at Tariffa, and the officers and crew, 92 in number, made prisoners. She is said to have been called the Constitution. Although so short a distance from the place, I cannot learn any particulars, and am inclined to doubt the story. There are several privateers in the neighborhood; vessels arriving here, having been boarded by them, are subjected to 10 days quarantine."

FROM LISBON.

Capt. M'Leven, of the ship Montesque, states, that the markets for grain and flour were very dull at Lisbon, upwards of one hundred sail of vessels arrived there from the Mediterranean, with grain, principally from the Black Sea, before he sailed. Additional duties on grain and flour have been imposed at Lisbon.

Extract of a letter from an officer, on board the U. S. ship Franklin, dated at Palermo, May 7, to the Editor of the Boston Gazette.

"The operations of our squadron consist principally, in visiting the ports of Sicily, and the neighboring States of Italy, and keeping the ships in the most perfect order. Now and then one of the vessels visits the coast of Barbary, and the rock of Gibraltar for intelligence. We have now in company the Guerriere and Erie. The Spark sailed a few days since for Tunis. I am tired of Palermo, and rejoice that we leave here in a day or two for Naples. Having lately had a taste of the pleasures and splendor of that delightful capital, I feel on the tiptoe of youthful expectancy again to renew them. You may possibly doubt what those pleasures are—rational (and I was almost about to say something of sublimity) I assure you.—We spent the 20th of April only in the capital of the kingdom of the two Sicilies, arriving on Saturday evening and sailing on Sunday night. In company with four officers of the ship, I paid a visit to Pompeia and Herculaneum; and derived that pleasure and interest which the scene was calculated to inspire, in a mind, not totally unacquainted with the history of their foundation. Instead of giving you an accurate description of the destruction and resuscitation, in part, of these once splendid cities, I shall rather express my feeling on beholding temples, palaces, and other buildings of art emerging to light from the ruin and darkness, in which they have been concealed for twenty centuries. The destruction of Gomorrah was not more dreadful, or complete, than that of unhappy Pompeia.—The first shower of pumice, vomited by Vesuvius, now forms a stratum of five or six feet above the level of the streets. To this succeeded the shower of cinders, which effectually crushed and covered every building, and left not a trace or vestige of the city above ground; the shower of ashes is from fifteen to twenty feet or more; you will therefore comprehend at once the vastness of the labour to effect the removal of such a mass of matter, covering a town three miles in circumference. Yet, this is contemplated, and whole streets have been opened from one extremity of the wall to the other. Six temples are laid open to the eye of the curious; a vast amphitheatre, theatre, and forum; many are the beautiful statues and vases daily collected from this mine of antiquities. It is to be regretted they do not remain where found; but are all conveyed to the museum at Naples. Although the substance that covers Pompeia is light, yet the quantity is such that a century will not suffice for its removal. Herculaneum was destroyed at the same time; but if possible in a more dreadful manner; a torrent of liquid fire rushed suddenly from the mountain, and buried it one hundred feet below its surface. This volcanic matter is equally hard with granite; the excavations are of course exceedingly limited, and have never been pursued in any other direction, than where the wall was first sunk, that discovered the city. Such was the good fortune, however, which directed the discoverer, that they fell immediately on the theatre, rich in statues and monuments of art.

"We returned to Naples in the evening, and where the splendid theatre of San Carlo kept awakened our astonishment with its enchantment and wonders. The piece was a pantomime dance, called Orlando Furioso, from Oriosto. Had I racked my imagination, I could not have fancied any thing so superbly elegant. The delight of myself and friends was unbounded. To cap the climax of rare and astonishing sights, the ever terrible Vesuvius, with the night, commenced throwing out a torrent of lava, reaching half way down its side; the largest eruption that has taken place for several years. We got on board at one o'clock at night; when the ship immediately weighed, and stood out of the bay by the light of nature's light house, streaming from that mountain "whose eternal fires forever glow."

Extract of a letter to the editor of the Boston Daily Advertiser, dated Port of Spain Trinidad, 17th May, 1819.

"The laws of this Island are a mixture of Spanish, innovated by recent proclamations of the Prince Regent in Council.—The Island is governed by an English Governor, with a "Council of Advice, not of Control." His powers are unlimited.—There is no internal legislation. The Governor is Judge of the High Court of Appeal exercising the powers of the Real Audiencia which was held formerly at the city of Caraccas. He has an Assessor. Appeals are made from him to the parliament of England, from whence they are transferred to the Court of King's Bench. The court of the first instant is the Court of his honor the Chief Judge, exercised by a sole Judge without a Jury. The same person is the Judge of the Court of Vice Admiralty, Judge of the Complaint Court, which last tribunal has been recently established.—Suits not exceeding 500 dols. are only admitted here. The proceedings of this court are summary and verbal, and its judgments are final and decisive. Besides these several supreme courts, there are the courts of their honors the Alcaides, of the first and second election, which are inferior courts. The Cabildo is a body corporate; but whatever are its true powers and privileges according to the Spanish laws, it is here composed of the creatures of the governor.

"The governor is commander in chief of the militia, which may be properly termed colonial regulars. It is obliged to parade every week, and militia orders are extremely severe and oppressive. The fact is, we enjoy but little liberty. We live under a military despotism subjected to the caprice and will of an arbitrary Englishman.

"I am engaged in agricultural pursuits at present, residing on my estate, aloof from the noise and bustle of the town in the enjoyment of rural felicity. I should, assuredly, relish these delicious pleasures in a greater degree, in happy New-England, but circumstances will not permit me to realize my ardent wishes. However, I still hope to be a citizen of that country, which gave me mental birth, and anticipate the glorious day with satisfaction, that I shall bid a lasting farewell to the ill fated land of my nativity."

July 13 S. A. MARSTELLER auct.

Public Sale.

ON FRIDAY, the 9th instant, at 12 o'clock of that day, by virtue of a deed of trust, we will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the premises, that very valuable tract of land in Fairfax county, near Holmes's Run, and about four miles from Alexandria, generally known by the name of containing about 115 acres. This land is about one half in wood—the balance cleared, and in cultivation, with convenient buildings on it, and excellent water near them. A considerable proportion of the open land is fertile, and well calculated for timothy meadows.

The sum of $2,254 77 cts will be required to be paid in cash; for the residue a credit of twelve months will be given from the day of sale, the purchaser paying interest thereon, and giving satisfactory security for the punctual payment thereof. A conveyance will be made when the purchase money and interest is all paid up. If the terms of the sale should not be complied with by the purchaser, the premises will be immediately re-sold to the highest bidder, at the risque of the person to whom it shall have been struck off; and the same course will be repeated until an effectual sale shall have taken place.

R. I. TAYLOR,
JACOB HOFFMAN.

The Sale of the above property is postponed till SATURDAY the 17th inst. at 12 o'clock

JOHN HOPKINS

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and is further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

At a meetin

Of the board of Directors of the Marine Insurance Company of Norfolk, 8th June, 1819.

Resolved, that a requisition of one dollar be made, and the same is hereby made on each share of stock, held in this company, which the stockholders are called upon to pay to the Secretary of this company, on or before the second day of August next.

Resolved, That the section of the act as relates to requisitions, be publised for the information of the stockholders.

"Be it enacted by the General Assembly, That a subscription be opened in the Borough of Norfolk under the direction of the following persons, to wit: Thomas Newton, William Pennock, Richard E. Lee, Theodorick Armistead, Moses Myers, John Granbery, and Richard Blow, gentlemen, for raising a capital stock of four hundred thousand dollars, in shares of twenty dollars each, and that each person do upon subscribing, pay to the person or persons receiving the same, under the authority of this act, five dollars upon each share so subscribed for, and the remainder of the said twenty dollars payable upon each share, shall be thereafter called for by the President and Directors at such times and in such proportions as they shall find necessary; giving six weeks notice in one of the newspapers published in the borough of Norfolk, City of Richmond, and Towns of Alexandria and Petersburg, of the sum required upon each share, and the time of making such payment: and if any subscriber, his executors, administrators, or assigns, shall fail to pay the sum called for, upon each share so held by him, her, or them, at the time appointed for such payment, every such share shall be forfeited and all the monies paid thereupon, for the use of the company; and the holder or holders of such share or shares, shall moreover be liable for the remaining sums of money payable upon such share or shares, when the same shall be called for by the President and Directors; to be recovered by them, where the sum called for shall amount to twenty dollars and upwards, by a motion in any court of record within this commonwealth, giving the holder or holders of such share or shares, their executors or administrators, ten days notice of such motion; and where the sum called for shall be less than twenty dollars, by petition or warrant, as the case may be."

Remittances made to the Secretary free of postage and at the risk of the stockholders, will be placed to their credit free of charge, and will make six dollars paid on each share of stock.

JOHN COWPER, Sec'ry.

☞ The editors of the Petersburgh Intelligencer, Virginia Patriot are requested to publish the above in their respective papers once a week for six weeks, and to send their accounts to the office of the Marine Insurance Company for payment.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the

Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington,
Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria,
Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria,
Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
